Manuscripts eligible for publication include: original research papers, review articles and short communications. Eligible for publication, after consultation with editorial board of each of the series, are papers presented in symposia and conferences. Other relevant submissions will be considered. The journal accepts manuscripts written in English. Articles submitted to the journal should be original, relevant, and clearly presented. Moreover, they should comply with the guide lines. Failure to do so will result in return of the manuscript and delays publication. The manuscripts are to be peer reviewed by two anonymous reviewers.

Submission declaration and verification:

Submission of an article implies that the work described:

- Is not simultaneously submitted to or previously published in any other scientific or technical journal, except in the form of an abstract, annual report, or as part of a published lecture or academic thesis,

- Is approved by all authors and tactically or explicitly by the authority where the work was conducted.
- If accepted, it will not be published elsewhere, in the same form, in English or any other language, without a written consent from the journal managerial board.

Preparation of manuscripts:

The text, which should not exceed 7000 words, is to be typed, double spaced on one side of A4 size good quality white paper. English and spelling should conform to the Oxford Dictionary. Times New Romans with font size 12 should be used. The top bottom and side margins should be 33 mm each. Pages should be numbered in Arabic numbers at the bottom centre starting with the title page.

Manuscripts should follow the order 1) title page, 2) abstract (in English and, if possible, in Arabic) and keywords, 3) introduction, 4) materials and methods, 5) results and discussion, 6) conclusions, 7) acknowledgement (if any), 8) references, 9) figure legends, 10) tables (full with caption and footnotes) and 11) figures.

Each figure is to be labelled on the back in soft pencil with the author's name and figure number. Authors are advised to refer to a recent issue of the journal for style and formatting.

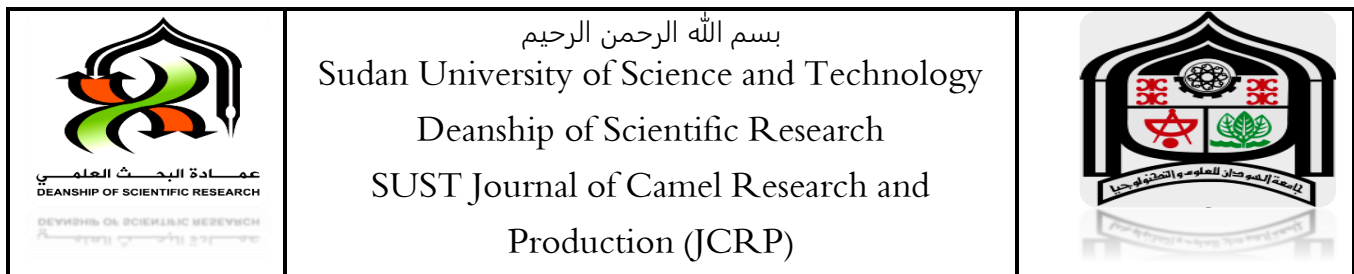

Title page:

Title page should contain: i) title of the manuscript, brief and informative, reflect the contents of the paper and be suitable for indexing, ii) author(s) name(s) and affiliation(s), if authors are differently affiliated Arabic numbers, as superscripts together with footnotes, are to be used to indicate affiliations and iii) name, postal and e-mail addresses, as well as telephone number, of corresponding author (indicated by asterisk) to whom all correspondence pertaining to the manuscript are to be made.

Abstract:

Abstract should not exceed 300 words, and should be written as a block paragraph. It is a brief description of the entire paper. It should contain a brief and concise description of the problem, objectives, methodology, findings with statistical significance, conclusions and implications of the work.

Keywords:

The keywords (3-5) should be i) carefully selected and ii) not included in the title.

Introduction:

The author(s) has to i) introduce the investigated problem, ii) provide a concise review of relevant previous researches citing significant findings and major conclusions, iii) the approach adopted to solve the problem and iv) relevant hypothesis, objectives and rationale for the study.

Materials and methods:

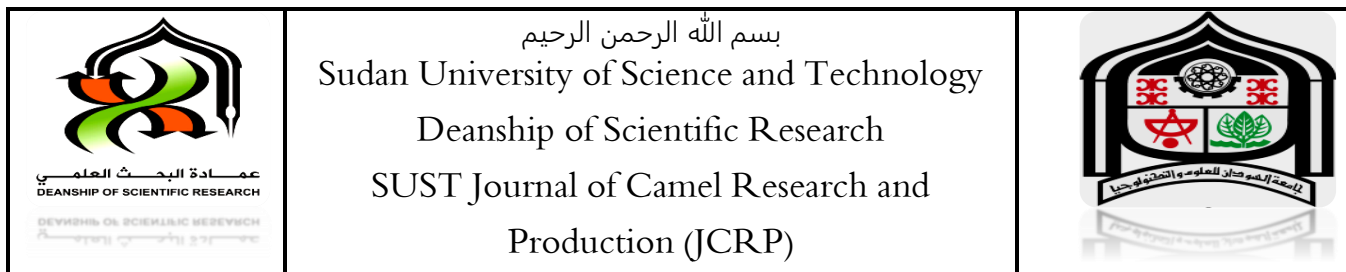

This section has to describe where, when and how the study was conducted, materials and equipment's used. The description should be in sufficient details that the experiment can be replicated or re-evaluated by peers. The materials and methods section may be divided into subsections as needed. Although the subsections may vary across disciplines, the most common are materials, apparatuses and procedures. Materials, technical specifications, source or method of preparation, should be detailed. Scientific names should be used with the common name in parenthesis for the first time. Thereafter the common name may be used throughout. Methods have to be enlisted in chronological order. Known methods need to be mentioned, but not described. New methods or techniques should be detailed. All quantities should be in the international system (SI) of units.

Results:

This section summarizes the data collected and the type of statistic used for analysis. It should include description of the results and not an explanation of the results. Tables and figures are normally used to present results and supplement the text. However, good quality photographs may sometimes be used. All figures (not more than 5), photographs and tables (not more than 5), should be numbered by Arabic numbers.

Discussion:

In this section results are evaluated and interpreted, but not repeated. Consistency and relationships of the results with previous researches and theories are to be discussed. Practical impact and implications on future researches should be pinpointed. If the discussion is relatively brief it could be combined with the result section as results and discussion.

References:

The journal is adopting the Harvard System (H-S). In the text, a reference identified by means of an author's name should be followed by the date of the reference in parentheses. When there are more than two authors, only the first author's name should be mentioned, followed by 'et al.'. In the event that an author cited has had two or more works published during the same year, the reference, both in the text and in the reference list, should be identified by a lower case letter like 'a' and 'b' after the date to distinguish the works. References should be listed at the end of the paper in alphabetical order. Articles in preparation or articles submitted for publication, unpublished observations, personal communications, etc. should not be included in the reference list but should only be mentioned in the article text. The author with initials and year should be included, in text, in parenthesis e.g. (Ali, G. A., 2011, unpublished data or Ali, G. A., 2011, personal communication).
